Aris Horticulture, Inc.

March 31, 2020

To: Aris Customers, Employees, and Industry Friends and Neighbors

Just a short note check-in, wish you all well, update you on Covid 19 and extend my hope that you and your families are keeping safe.

I know you are all busy with many things, so I'll keep this short.

The Aris team is focused, first and foremost, on health and safety at all our facilities and have implemented the procedures from the authorities for sanitation, distancing and remote work where possible. I want to especially thank those very important employees who are on the front lines and working everyday to keep things working and being safe.

Aris is operating (shipping, planting, working with customers and in general keeping the business going).

It's a rough time throughout the horticulture industry and world at large. Spring is upon us and we are looking forward to supporting customers with plants, flexible shipping and timely communications to help people keep up with all that is changing. We are looking forward to being there for you in the days and weeks ahead. The healthcare workers across the world are leading the way forward and we want to keep them in our thoughts and prayers.

Thanks for working with us to manage through all the difficult challenges.

It's my sincerest hope that you all stay safe, work together through the issues and reconnect with what's important – our future.
